

JPMorgan Money Market Funds – Reform update

Intended designations for JPMorgan Money Market Funds

Under the amendments to Rule 2a-7 adopted by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) in July 2014, JPMorgan Money Market Funds (MMFs) will, beginning in October 2016, fall under the following qualifications.¹

REVIEWING KEY AMENDMENTS TO RULE 2A-7 BY FUND TYPE

¹ Qualifications reflected in supplement to the registration statements for the JPMorgan Money Market Funds filed with the SEC on March 2, 2016. These determinations remain subject to future change. Shareholders will be given notice of further developments, as appropriate.

² The JPMorgan Prime Money Market Fund will be required to transition to a floating NAV calculated to four decimals (e.g., $1.0000) on or before October 14, 2016. This transition is expected to occur on or about October 1, 2016. The JPMorgan Prime MMF will also be subject to the liquidity fee and gate provisions beginning October 14, 2016.

³ It is currently intended that each of the Government MMFs will continue to operate with its existing objective to maintain a $1.00 stable NAV. The Funds' Board has no current intention to subject the Government MMFs to temporary liquidity fees and redemption gates.

⁴ The Funds listed above as Retail will seek to qualify as Retail MMFs by October 1, 2016.

⁵ Effective September 1, 2016, each of the JPMorgan California Municipal Money Market Fund, JPMorgan New York Municipal Money Market Fund and JPMorgan Municipal Money Market Fund has adopted a non-fundamental policy to invest, under normal circumstances, 100% of its total assets in weekly liquid assets (as defined under Rule 2a-7).

Transforming our operation to best service you

Under the amended SEC rules, Institutional Prime MMFs will transition to a floating NAV, which will be priced at multiple times per day. The JPMorgan Prime Money Market Fund will ordinarily calculate its share class NAV three times on each day the fund accepts purchases and redemptions—at 8 AM, 12 PM and 3 PM ET.⁶

⁷See supplement to the registration statements for the JPMorgan Money Market Funds filed with the SEC on March 2, 2016.

⁶ Per the supplement to the registration statements for the JPMorgan Money Market Funds filed with the SEC on March 2, 2016, effective on or about October 1, 2016, the NAV of each class of shares of the JPMorgan Prime MMF will ordinarily be calculated as of 8:00 AM, 12:00 PM and 3:00 PM ET on each day the Fund accepts purchases and redemptions. Intraday wires are not guaranteed. Payment of the redemption proceeds generally will be made on the Business Day that the redemption is effective, although there can be no assurances that redemption proceeds will be paid on such day. Until such conversion date, it is currently expected that the JPMorgan Prime Money Market Fund will continue to seek to maintain a stable NAV per share of $1.00 using the amortized cost method to value their portfolios of securities.

You could lose money by investing in the Fund. Although the Fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, it cannot guarantee it will do so. An investment in the Fund is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. The Fund's sponsor has no legal obligation to provide financial support to the Fund, and you should not expect that the sponsor will provide financial support to the Fund at any time.
