

J.P. Morgan Asset Management appoints new Client Advisor on the Global Liquidity EMEA sales team

London, 24 April 2017

J.P. Morgan Asset Management (JPMAM) has appointed Tatyana Dachyshyn as an Executive Director and Client Advisor on the Global Liquidity EMEA sales team, responsible for business development in Germany and Austria. Tatyana will represent the Global Liquidity business, working closely with investors who have a need for a short-term fixed income investment solution. She starts with immediate effect. She will be based in London and will report to Jim Fuell, Head of Global Liquidity Sales, International at J.P. Morgan Asset Management.

“We are delighted Tatyana has joined the team and she comes armed with a wealth of experience. Her role in serving our clients in Germany and Austria will be crucial in helping us further grow our presence in the region, particularly as German and Austrian investors continue to seek the support of an external manager with both the track record, experience and breadth and depth of solutions our Global Liquidity business is able to bring,” said Fuell.

Tatyana worked for the majority of her career in German and Austrian banks. She joins most recently from Commerzbank London, where she previously served as Director, in Global Client Development in Securities Finance, enabling clients to borrow or deposit securities and cash on a collateralised basis, achieving additional returns, cheaper funding, and access liquidity management solutions globally. Prior to her last role, she worked at Erste Bank Group in Institutional Equity Sales. She is fluent in German, Russian, Ukrainian and English.
