

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QI) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 ("PATH Act") Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 ("PATH Act") Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QI) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QI) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.

Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (“PATH Act”) Qualified Interest (QII) Percentages for JPMorgan Funds

Generally, non-U.S. investors are subject to a withholding tax of 30 percent (or lower applicable treaty rates) on ordinary dividends received from U.S. mutual funds. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 provided non-U.S. investors temporary relief by allowing U.S. mutual funds to designate a portion of their ordinary dividends as interest related dividends (commonly referred to as qualified interest income) not subject to withholding tax. The relief was retroactively extended several times and finally made permanent by the PATH Act. The following qualified interest income percentages represent the portion of dividends paid by the J.P. Morgan money market funds not subject to withholding tax.
