

J.P. Morgan Asset Management appoints new Client Advisor for Germany and Austria on the Global Liquidity EMEA sales team

London, September 2020

J.P. Morgan Asset Management (JPMAM) has appointed Philip Annecke as an Executive Director and Client Advisor on the Global Liquidity EMEA sales team, responsible for business development in Germany and Austria. Philip will be responsible for working closely with investors who have a need for short-term fixed income investment solutions. He starts with immediate effect and will report to Jim Fuell, Head of Global Liquidity Sales, International at J.P. Morgan Asset Management.

"We are delighted Philip has joined the team, especially as he comes with a great deal of experience. His role in serving our clients in Germany and Austria and helping us further grow our presence in the region, particularly as in these challenging times, German and Austrian investors continue to seek the support of an external manager with both the track record, experience and breadth and depth of solutions our Global Liquidity business is able to bring," said Fuell

In his previous role, Philip was Head of ETF Distribution for Germany and Austria at JPMAM. In this capacity, Philip was responsible for leading JPMAM's ETF business in both countries with a particular focus on the institutional client space. As one of Source's (now Invesco Powershares) earliest employees, he has held similar positions in setting up a business within an existing framework of 6 stakeholders of Source (Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan (IB), BofAML, Morgan Stanley, Nomura and PIMCO) and was an incremental part in making his former employer one of the top and only independent ETF providers in Europe. Prior to joining Source, Philip worked at Credit Suisse in Ultra High Net Worth Private Banking (Solution Partners) and FX Trading at Credit Suisse Asset Management in Zurich, Switzerland. Philip graduated from Trinity College in Dublin with a Bachelor of Honour in Business & Economics.
